Bogotá

CUNDINAMARCA

Bogotá was founded as the capital of the New Kingdom of Granada on August 6, 1538 by the Spanish conqueror Gonzalo Jiménez de Quesada after a tough expedition to the Andes.

It is the third-highest capital in South America (after Quito and La Paz), since it is located at an average of 2,625 meters above sea level. It is located in the center of Colombia, in the natural region known as the Bogotá savanna, which is part of the Cundiboyacense plateau, a formation located in the Eastern Andes.

It has a length of 33 km from south to north, and 16 km from east to west. As a capital, it houses the highest-ranking bodies in the executive branch (Presidency of the Republic), legislative (Colombian Congress) and judicial (Supreme Court of Justice, Constitutional Court, Council of State and the Superior Council of the Judiciary) .

According to The Economist, in the economic plane, Bogotá stands out for its economic strength associated with the size of its production, the facilities to create companies and do business, financial maturity, the attraction of global companies and the quality of its human capital. It is the main market in Colombia and the Andean Region, and the first destination for direct foreign investment that reaches Colombia (70%).

LAGUNA SAGRADA DE GUATAVITA

CARTAGENA FOR TRAVELERS

TOUR # 5

The Cacique Guatavita lagoon is located in the eastern mountain range of Colombia, in the municipality of Sesquilé, north of the municipal capital of Guatavita, at a distance of 75 km northeast of Bogotá, Almeidas de Cundinamarca province. The lagoon was one of the most sacred of the Muiscas, since the investiture ritual of the new Zipa (Cacique) was performed there; according to legend, he was in a reed raft richly decorated; his body was entirely covered with gold dust; At his feet, they put a large quantity of gold and emeralds to offer to the gods and burning braziers to burn a kind of incense called moque; the new dignitary was accompanied by four chiefs and when the raft reached the center of the lagoon, the people who were on the shores threw gold objects and precious stones into the water. This is one of the origins of the El Dorado legend. The famous Muisca Raft that is exhibited in the Gold Museum of the Bank of the Republic of Colombia is evidence that this type of ritual was celebrated in the lakes of the region.

PRIVATE TOUR TO GUATAVITA: Going to this sacred place is a special tour, since it offers you the beauty of the natural landscape, the history and the tradition of the Muisca culture.
