COLOMBIAN
COFFEE

Where does our name come from?

Something that characterizes the coffee cultural landscape is the architecture of its farms and precisely when entering them, a kind of perimeter railing is observed, which serves so that the grain collectors at the end of the afternoon lean on it to rest and appreciate the sunset accompanied by a cup of the best coffee in the world

How do we process our coffee?

Our coffee is harvested mainly at the La Estrella farm in the municipality of Filadelfia, department of Caldas and in other farms in the area, where manual harvesting and coffee processing are carried out in an artisanal way, selecting the beans with the best characteristics.

Colombian coffee directly in your hands

After the coffee is washed and dried, it is sent to the city of Manizales where our taster and roaster is in charge of selecting the beans again to guarantee a Supreme coffee with a 17 and 18 mesh. Later, taking into account the humidity and various parameters, they carry out the roasting in order to exalt all the attributes that characterize Chambrana coffee, hence the fragrance of caramel, subtle chocolate and notes of red fruits also sweet taste of caramel, citric and fruity, medium acidity, medium round body and flavor enduring residual with hints of nuts and caramel.
