Mission

Whether you are trying to keep up with the fast-paced "new economy" world or you want your company or traditional institution to take advantage of that economy, one thing is clear: today's executives need to make quick and decisive actions to stay at a competitive level. It is here that an external point of view can be very useful. It would help you find specific goals from a new perspective and find solutions that can meet and even exceed your company's initial goals. While other consulting companies continue to offer you endless meetings full of fashion words, CONCORP would already be working on implementing strategies and developing the necessary solutions to reach its objectives and avoid future contingencies.

We are a group of professionals whose assets are knowledge and experience. We have a multidisciplinary team, among engineers, psychologists, lawyers, tax auditors, auditing accountants and other specialties, who share the same technical and operating standards, as well as methodologies, technologies and training programs. This includes strategic alliances with companies and with national and foreign professionals, which provides us with a valuable experience that we pass on to our clients.

We guide and train our CONCORP professionals, knowledge of specific industries, companies or organizations and organizational competencies, such as leadership skills, teamwork or customer service. The work of our professionals is evaluated periodically, since CONCORP pursues a career plan in a global system of competence management and performance evaluation, which contributes to the professional development of each one of its members.

*"As a business advisor there
I am afraid to say: 'I do not know, but I
I'll find out'."*

We also provide legal advice in matters with tax implications relevant to your business, such as: commercial, contractual, liquidations, interventions, mergers, management consulting, foreign trade, labor law, among others.

Corporate governance

Good Corporate Governance (Environmentally responsible) is the system by which companies are managed and controlled. The structure of good corporate governance specifies the distribution of the rights and responsibilities among the different participants of the company, such as the board of directors, managers, shareholders and other economic agents that maintain some interest in the company. Good Corporate Governance also provides the structure through which the objectives of the company are established, the means to achieve these goals, as well as how to follow up on its performance ", taking as reference the Organization for Economic Cooperation and the Economic Development - OECD)

Due to the public's mistrust, shaken by recent events, the task that the shareholders of the liability companies have undertaken is to carry out investigations, whose approach to corporate responsibility is intense, for which we provide the service of advice and evaluation of the instruments to achieve these objectives.
