EUCALYPTUS

Gathered from the flowering eucalyptus trees of Brazil, this distinctive honey has a sweet flavor offset by cool undertones of fresh eucalyptus. Rich in minerals.

Common uses: Teas, toast, pastries

ORANGE BLOSSOM

Fresh from the spring blossoms of Southern Brazil's orange groves, this orange blossom honey features light citrus undertones.

Golden color and a wholesome, sweet taste.

Recommended for table use? Yes

Recommended for cooking and baking? Yes

Common uses: Drinks, biscuits, pancakes, pastries

WILD

With its deep, rich flavor, our wildflower honey features a select blend of wild blossoms and flowers.

Slightly darker in color than other honeys, this wildflower honey will add a more robust taste to baking recipes.

Common uses: Muffins, meats, breads

ANGICO

Copper colored and darker than the colors normally seen in other flowery ones.

It is popularly widely applied externally on wounds and ulcers.

A honey of very soft, velvety texture, pleasant on the tongue, with characteristic sweetness, but very well balanced with slightly citric notes. Caramel and toffee notes are also noticed.

Common uses: harmonization with stronger cheeses and more complex flavors. Gorgonzola and brie camembert cheeses of more advanced maturity.

JAPANESE RAISING TREE FLOWERS

Light colored and subtle flavor honey. Rare and noble.
Honey- like flavor of orange blossoms.

WHITE CLOVER

Saturated with the aromatic, mild flavor of clover blossoms. It has a sweet and light taste with a hint of cinnamon.

This classic honey has a pleasingly mild, floral sweetness that is easily accepted. Lingering hint of sour aftertaste.

Common uses: Desserts, sauces, meats, sweet breads, yogurt, cereal

COUNTRY FLOWERS

Rich in mineral salts, this honey comes from the pollen of several country flowers.

It has a strong beautifying, tonic and fortifying factor.
