

After several generations as farmers, the idea of commercializing our products and those of our friends is born. They, like us, believe in Mexico, in the richness of our land and in the worthy work of the rural people.

We are dedicated to market and produce fresh and processed food products of the highest quality for national sale and to export.

We are specialized in working on the customer's requirements; therefore, we had been able to establish enduring business relationships.

Currently we work with commercial chains throughout the western Pacific area, serving more than 200 stores and exporting to several countries.
