PURPOSE

Our purpose is the collaborative facilitation of regenerative development and design contributing to the vitalization of the person and place that would add increasing value to the health and well-being of the planet.

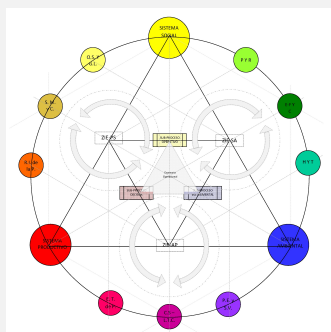

OUR WORK

We believe that each project must make a global difference, awakening its vitality to reach its maximum possible potential. Our work encourages the adoption of Regenerative Development and the Challenge of a Living Future in each project, as much as is feasible, and under the idea of facilitating planning and design processes through collaborative, integrated teams

HOW WE WORK

At REGENBE, we exercise this understanding through the Macroscopic analysis. Based on the tool used for more than thirty years in various public and private fields as a holistic work method and articulates with its different techniques and tools such as:

- El Macrosystem
- Story of Place ®
- Integrative design process (IDP)
- Regenerative Immersion Workshops for public entities
- Professional Mindset transformation
- Transformative legacy & Community Planning Process

Market

Our target are owners and developers as community as well, We focus special attention on third party bodies, financial entities and sustainable finance ecosystem at LATAM&C.

Business model

We are a corporate and collaborative think tank who providing regenerative consulting and sustainability assessment which can be combined with planning and design services. We are marketing our services within the sustainable market with particular focus on real estate industry building alliances and networking with financial organizations and institutions to leverage sustainable goals. We serve internationally and have customers in Mexico, Dominican Republic, Colombia, El Salvador, Puerto Rico and Costa Rica.
