Ginger

Siller Producer specializes in the production of ginger and the purchase and sale of roots. We plant, harvest, and market the best quality ginger in a sustainable way that preserves the environment. The plant has multiple therapeutic benefits: it has a bactericidal action, is detoxifying, and also improves the performance of the digestive, respiratory, and circulatory systems. Ginger is also a thermogenic food, which can speed up metabolism and promote the burning of body fat, among other benefits.

Ginger (Zingiber officinale Roscoe) is a perennial herbaceous plant belonging to the botanical family Zingiberaceae.

- Ginger occupies an important space in the diversification of cultures of the mountain region of Espírito Santo. The state is the largest producer of ginger in the country. The largest production center is in the municipalities of Santa Maria de Jetibá and Santa Leopoldina.
- The mountainous region with an average altitude of 600 meters is scattered by small sites where coffee stands out as the most important crop.
- In Brazil, it is best known as the ingredient of hot sauce, but there are many virtues of this Asian plant used mainly in cooking. Its spicy taste stimulates digestion and ginger tea is very effective in treating coughs and sore throats. It also extracts essential oils used in the manufacture of cosmetics.
- The Brazilian ginger is of excellent quality and the productivity revolves around 50 tons per hectare.
