

WHO WE ARE

We founded our company in 2003 believing that Brazil had a great opportunity to produce raw organic honey of great quality in the wild forests of Piauí. It's been a long journey since our humble beginnings, today our refrigerated factory can process 100 tn of organic honey per day. And we keep investing in the bees. Today we produce a variety of products for our clients around the world. In May of 2018 we opened our new packing factory to keep providing new products to our clients.

WHAT WE OFFER

Raw organic honey produced in the unique biome of the northeast Brazil. We work with polyflora and monofloral honeys. Our honeys have organic certificate for the European Union, United States, Canada and Scandinavian countries. Our clients can conquer new markets by offering an organic honey of great quality and certifications.

WHY WE DO IT

Brazil has the size of a continent. With different climates and biomes with unique biodiversity. Our company is placed right in the middle of the biggest organic honey production area in Brazil. We source our honey from beekeepers that we know and watch them work everyday. And we see the impact in our local community of a sustainable economic activity like organic beekeeping that is a key factor in the conservation of our wild forests.

WHEN WE DO IT

The unique biodiversity that the brazilian northeast offers allow us to provide organic honey to our clients all year with unique aromas and flavours. Either by offering our polyfloras or monoflorals honeys, or specific blends requested by our clients, S&A Honey supplies the most demanding markets around the globe.
